Abstract

Unknown parameters of the diffusion process are estimated by the results of discrete observations.

We apply martingale methods for estimating the parameters based on the approximation of likelihood function and obtain consistent and asymptotically normal estimates of parameters.